

Kyle Renfro - Guitar Instructor

Kyle started his music education at the Age of 9 in Wichita, Kansas. He took lessons for 6 months before his family packed up and moved to Knoxville, Tennessee. Knowing he had a passion for the instrument, he immediately signed up for lessons with Randy Gouge, a professional Nashville session guitarist and instructor. He studied with Randy until the Age of 18 when he went to college.

At the Age of 19, Kyle and his family moved to Tomah, Wisconsin. Kyle attended the University of Wisconsin - La Crosse, studying Classical Guitar Performance under Dirck Nagy and Music Composition under Christopher Frye. He won the Music Department's Honor Recital Scholarship in 2015.

Kyle has played in 10+ bands, all varying in genres. He currently plays in Kyle Renfro Trio, Flibbertijibbet, and Slow No Wake. He has also found a love for playing in theater pits whenever opportunity calls.

Kyle's diverse background in guitar has provided him with the tools to teach many genres proficiently. His extensive experience allows him to guide each student in their individual musical goals.

In addition to guitar, Kyle also offers Beginner's Music Theory to any musicians looking to enhance their musical knowledge.
